

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

The lighting is just right, the music is not too loud ... Let's get this first date going!

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What kind of place would you choose for a first date? Why?
- What kind of music do you think works best for a date? Why?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social activities, feelings and reactions.
- I can ask for help or advice.
- I can express complex statements using words like who, that or which.

Let's Explore!

Mike shares the dos and don'ts of going on a first date.

* "Dos and don'ts" are things you should and should not do on certain occasions.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Mike: Hey Peter, you look worried. What's the matter?

Peter: I got a message in my inbox on Tinder last night. There's a girl who wants to go on a date with me tomorrow.

Mike: That's great news! Why are you making that face?

Peter: I really want this date to work. Can you tell me what you would do if you were me?

Mike: First of all, you must choose a place that you're familiar with. You shouldn't get out of your comfort zone on the first date.

Peter: Could you show me how to choose the perfect spot?

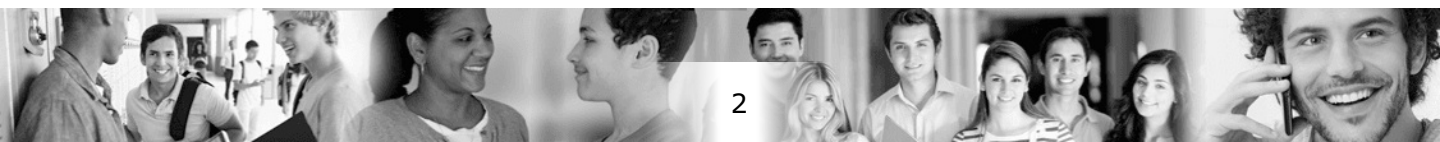

Mike: I think the setting is important. I would avoid the type of loud bars that drown out your conversation. The people who sit around you shouldn't have to shout, and you don't want to get distracted by their chatter! You should go to a place that is quiet but not too quiet.

Peter: That sounds like the kind of place that I like to go anyway.

Mike: Great. The lighting should be dim and not too bright. A first date should feel like a relaxing experience, which is the most important part.

Peter: Do you have any idea where to find this perfect setting? You strike me as someone who has tried every single bar in Cambridge.

Mike: Actually, I have ...

Let's Practice!

It's not easy finding the perfect spot for a first date!

Instructions: Select all the grammatically correct sentences per question. Practice saying the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. What does Mike say about finding the perfect spot?
 - ☐ You must choose a place that you are familiar with.
 - ☐ You should find a place that gets you out of your comfort zone.
 - ☐ You should shout louder than the people who is sitting around you.
 - ☐ The people who is sitting around you shouldn't have to shout.

2. What does Peter say about tomorrow?
 - ☐ There is no one who would like to go out with me tomorrow.
 - ☐ There is a girl who wants to go on date with me tomorrow.
 - ☐ That sound like the kind of place that I like to go to.
 - ☐ The place that you told me about it is closed tomorrow.

Let's Practice!

Mike shares his feelings about dating.

Instructions: Find the words in the word search below.

Word

- worried
- relaxing
- setting
- dim
- drown out
- comfort zone
- chatter

Extension Activity

Write a relationship advice column.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think of 3 questions people often ask about relationships. Write them on 3 pieces of paper.
- Give your questions to a partner. Take your partner's questions.
- Answer your partner's questions in the style of a relationship advice column.
- You can go online to read about relationship advice columns for help.
- Exchange your answers with your partner. React to your partner's answers.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I discuss complex subjects.

☐
☐

I write about relationships and friendships.

☐
☐

I ask for advice.

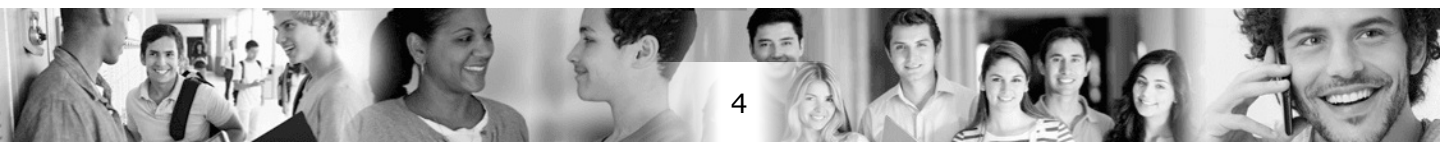

☐
☐

I express opinions and reactions.

☐
☐

Target Words

- worried (adjective): troubled about potential problems; anxious e.g. You look worried. What's the matter?
- relaxing (adjective): causing someone to feel less tense or anxious e.g. A first date should feel like a relaxing experience
- setting (noun): the way a place is set up and decorated e.g. I think the restaurant setting is important for a first date.
- dim (adjective): not brightly lit
e.g. The lighting should be dim and not too bright.
- chatter (noun): the noise made by several conversations at once e.g. You don't want to be distracted by people's chatter.
- to drown out (verb): to be so loud that something cannot be heard
e.g. You should avoid loud bars that drown out your conversation.
- comfort zone (noun): a situation in which you feel the most at ease
e.g. You shouldn't get out of your comfort zone on the first date.

Learning Points

Asking for Help or Advice

There are several ways to ask for help in English. You can use polite and casual language to do this. Let's look at one particular structure for asking for help.

You can use the structure:

Can/Could/Do + you + verb + me (optional) + question word

Can you tell me what you would do if you were me?

Could you show me how to choose the perfect spot?

Do you have any idea where to find this perfect setting?

Can/Could/Do	You	Verb	(me)	Question Word
Can	you	tell	me	what I should wear for a blind date?
Could	you	show	me	how to arrange the perfect date?
Do	you	have		any idea where to find the perfect setting?
Do	you	know		where I can find a place that is quiet, but not too quiet?

Can is the more casual choice of wording to ask for help or advice. Could is more formal. Do you have ... ? is also quite formal in usage.

Learning Points

Subject and Object Relative Clauses

You use subject and object relative clauses when you want to make it clear which person or thing you are talking about.

Relative clauses begin with relative pronouns.

You use the pronoun who to refer to people, which to refer to things or that to refer to either people or things. You put the relative clause immediately after the noun it talks about.

A subject relative clause describes the subject of the clause.

Example:

The school that I went to is over there.

Which school? The school I went to.

The clause that I went to immediately follows school - the noun it describes

An object relative clause describes the object of the clause.

Example:

Can you remember the name of the movie that we saw?

Which movie? The movie we saw.

Example	Clause	Relative Pronoun	Type of Relative Clause
A first date should feel like a relaxing experience, which is the most important part.	which is the important part	which	subject
The people who sit around you shouldn't have to shout.	who sit around you	who	subject
You must choose a place that you're familiar with.	that you're familiar with	that	object

