

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

There must be a way to make sure your first date goes well!

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Who do you ask for relationship advice?
- Have you ever read a love and relationship column in a magazine? What kind of letters did you read?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social activities, feelings and reactions.
- I can speculate about feelings and impressions.
- I can express complex statements using words like who, that or which.

Let's Explore!

Peter gets the lowdown on speed dating. Will he be comfortable with it?

* When you get the "lowdown" on something, you get relevant facts about it.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Peter: Hey Mike, can I ask you something?

Mike: Sure. What's up?

Peter: Have you ever tried speed dating before?

Mike: Yeah, I have, a couple of times. It was really fun. I met a few girls who were into the same kinds of things as me.

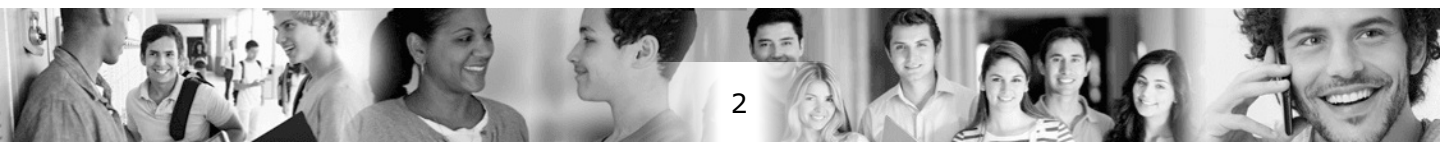

Peter: It must have been a good experience, then! I'm having the hardest time finding someone who thinks I'm interesting these days. Every time I try to speak to a girl that I like, they seem so bored by what I'm saying.

Mike: Speed dating can be a daunting experience at first. You may have been a bit nervous, I guess. You have to focus on making an impact, which means that you only have a couple of minutes to show them how captivating you can be.

Peter: That must be easy for you! Everyone in the office is always thrilled to hear your stories. I'm the kind of rambling guy who can't even say a joke properly!

Mike: You must think that it's the only way to get people engaged, but that's not true. Sometimes, it's what you don't say that makes the conversation interesting. Try to be more relaxed. Practice makes perfect! You might not have heard this before!

Peter: Thanks for nothing, Mike ...

Let's Practice!

What do Mike and Peter think of speed dating?

Instructions: Read the dialogue again. Select the correct answer.

1. Mike says that speed dating ...
 - a) can be a daunting experience at first.
 - b) should be a daunting experience at first.
 - c) must not be a daunting experience at first.
2. Mike thinks that Peter ...
 - a) can't have been nervous.
 - b) may have been nervous.
 - c) may have been engaged.
3. Peter believes that ...
 - a) speed dating must be hard for Mike.
 - b) speed dating can be hard for Mike.
 - c) speed dating must not be hard for Mike.
4. Peter ...
 - a) might have heard that practice makes perfect.
 - b) must have heard that practice makes perfect.
 - c) might not have heard that practice makes perfect.

Let's Practice!

Peter needs to step up* his game!

*When you "step up" your game, you increase your skills.

Instructions: Choose a word from the box to correctly complete the sentences.

Word bank

thrilled / relaxed / engaged / rambling / daunting / captivating / interesting / bored

1. He is having a hard time finding people who think he is an _____ person.
2. Every time he speaks to a girl he likes, they seem so _____ by what he's saying.
3. Speed dating is a _____ experience.
4. You need to show immediately how _____ you can be.
5. Everyone is always _____ to hear Mike's fun stories.
6. Peter is more like a _____ guy. No one listens to him.
7. He needs to find a way to keep people _____.
8. Maybe he should be more _____.

Extension Activity

Write a presentation for a speed dating event.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write something about yourself (12-14 lines) for a speed dating event.
- Include as many details about your personality as possible.
- Make sure you are captivating and interesting and that the other person won't feel bored.
- Time yourself and try to talk for 90 seconds or less.
- If you finish before 90 seconds, add more details.
- Listen to your partner's presentation. Did you feel engaged?

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write about myself.

☐ ☐

I talk about relationships and social activities.

☐ ☐

I talk about feelings and reactions.

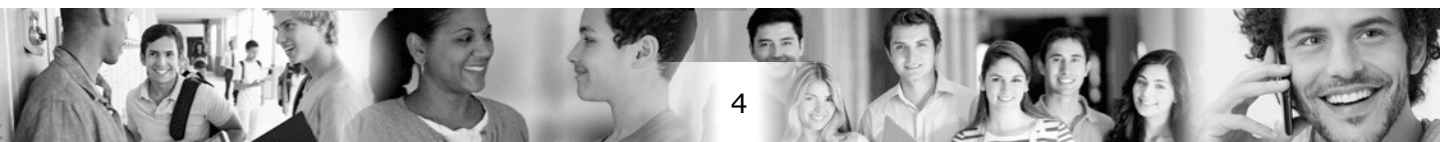

☐ ☐

I express personal opinions about relationships.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- engaged (adjective): highly interested in something e.g. Telling interesting stories is a good way to get people engaged.
- bored (adjective): lacking interest in something or someone e.g. People seem to be bored by what I'm saying.
- thrilled (adjective): very excited
e.g. Everyone in the office is always thrilled to hear your stories.
- daunting (adjective): difficult to deal with e.g. Speed dating can be a daunting experience at first.
- rambling (adjective): lengthy and confused; inconsequential e.g. I'm the kind of rambling guy who can't even say a joke properly.
- captivating (adjective): capable of attracting interest e.g. You only have a few minutes to show how captivating you can be.
- practice makes perfect (expression): get better at something after you do it many times.
e.g. You must try speed dating many times before you can get comfortable with it. Practice makes perfect!

Learning Points

Modal Verbs for Speculating

You can use modals to talk about degrees of certainty.

You use them to describe what is definite, probable, possible, or impossible from the speaker's point of view.

You can use must, may, might, and could to describe degrees of certainty.

Must = It's very likely.

Must not/Could not / Can't = it's not possible.

May/Might/Can/Could = It's possible.

May not/Might not = It's possible this is not true.

Modal	Meaning
It must be easy for you.	It's very likely it's easy for you.
I'm the kind of guy who can't say a joke properly.	It's not possible for me to say a joke properly.
You may have been a bit nervous.	It's possible you were nervous.
You might not have heard this before!	It's possible you didn't hear it before.

The structure modal + have been past participle refers to a speculation about a past action or event.

Example: You must have been tired after working every day last month.

In conversation, it is common to use the contracted form of these structures:

must have = must've

might have = might've

may have = may've

could have = could've

Learning Points

Subject and Object Relative Clauses

When you want to make it clear which person or thing you are talking about, you use a relative clause.

You can begin a relative clause with the relative pronoun who for people, which for things or that for either people or things.

In spoken English you usually use that, rather than which or who.

You put the relative clause immediately after the noun it talks about.

A subject relative clause describes the subject of the clause.

Example:

The man who called wanted to speak to Tom.

Which man? The man who called.

The clause who called immediately follows man - the noun it describes.

An object relative clause describes the object of the clause.

Example:

Can you return the book that I lent you?

Which book? The book I lent you.

Example	Clause	Relative Pronoun	Type of Relative Clause
You have to focus on making an impact, which means that you only have a couple of minutes to show them how captivating you can be.	which means that you only have a couple of minutes to show them how captivating you can be	which	subject
I met a few girls who were into the same kinds of things as me.	who were into the same kinds of things as me	who	object
Every time I try to speak to a girl that I like, they seem so bored by what I'm saying.	that I like	that	object
It's what you don't say that makes the conversation interesting.	that makes the conversation interesting	that	subject

