Let's Start!

When you want to meet people online, the first impression always counts!

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- How important do you think appearances are in a relationship? Why?
- What would your ideal date look like?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about technology, friendships and relationships.
- I can talk about feelings and reactions.
- I can ask for help or advice.

Let's Explore!

Peter is getting a crash course on online dating.

* A "crash course" is a way to learn something in a very short amount of time.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: Hey Sally! I set up my profile last night, and I've already received a few messages. I'm really excited!
- Sally: This is exciting!
- Peter: The only problem is that I have no idea what to do now. Can you show me how to read them?
- Sally: You can mouse over the links in your inbox. It will open the message on a pop-up page.
- Peter: Do the messages have pictures? Can you tell me where to look for them?
- Sally: They're at the bottom of the page. Just scroll down a little, and you should be able to see them. You can save the pictures, too.
- Peter: Oh I see them. This is amazing.
- Sally: I'm glad you are finally amazed by technology! The best thing about Tender is that you can also access it from your phone.
- Peter: Can you show me how to do that?
- Sally: Go to the website and log in. Swipe right if you find someone interesting, or swipe left if you're not interested! If you like a profile, you can also bookmark it in your list of favorites.
- Peter: This is much easier than picking someone up at a bar.
- Sally: Maybe ... You should still work on your pick-up lines, though!

Let's Practice!

Can technology help Peter make new friends? Sally thinks so!

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Correct the mistakes. Practice saying the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

4. Just scral down a little, and you should be able to see them.
5. If you like a profile, you can also bokmak it in your list of favorites.
6. This is much easier than peckin someone up at a bar.

Let's Practice!

Peter reacts to Sally's feelings about technology.

Instructions: Choose a word from the box to correctly complete the sentence.

1. I'm really _____ about my new profile.
2. This is an _____ thing for you!
3. This new online dating website is _____.
4. I'm glad you're finally _____ by technology.
5. Swipe right if you find someone _____.
6. Swipe left if you're not _____ by them.

Extension Activity

Make a list of qualities you would like in a person you want to take on a date.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think of the qualities you would like to find in an ideal date.
- Write 8 to 10 adjectives about them on a piece of paper. They can be physical, emotional, etc.
- Give the piece of paper to a partner, and take your partner's piece of paper.
- Order the list of adjectives, from #1 to #10. #1 is the most important quality. #10 is the least important quality.
- Share your opinions with your partner.

Learning Points

Talking About Someone's Feelings and Reactions

You talk about feelings and reactions using adjectives.

Adjectives that end in -ed are used to describe how a person feels, like excited, amazed or interested.

Adjectives that end in -ing are used to describe things and situations, like exciting, amazing or interesting. These adjectives describe the effect something has on a person.

Examples:

- I set up my profile last night, and I've already received a few messages. I'm really excited!
- This is exciting!
- Swipe right if you find someone interesting, or swipe left if you're not interested!

Asking for Help or Advice

There are several ways to ask for help in English. You can use polite and casual language to do this. Let's look at one particular structure for asking for help.

You can use the structure:

Can/ Could/ Do + you + verb + me (optional) + Question word

Can/Could/Do	You	Verb	(me)	Question Word
Could	you	show	me	how to read the messages?
Can	you	tell	me	where to look for them?

Examples:

- Can you show me how to read the messages?
- Can you tell me where to look for them?
- Can you show me how to do that?
