Let's Start!

You'll know straight away if it's the right person for you!

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about friendships and relationships
- I can speculate about feelings and impressions.
- I can talk about wishes and imaginary situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you think the ideal partner exists? Why or why not?
- Where or how do you think you could meet your ideal partner?

Let's Explore!

Can Peter meet his other half thanks to speed dating? Mike thinks so.

* This expression comes from an ancient Greek story where couples used to be two halves of the same body.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Mike: Hey Peter, any luck with that speed dating? Have you met your other half yet?
- Peter: Very funny. That must feel natural for you, but not for me. I wish I were as successful with girls as you are.
- Mike: It doesn't always work out, you know. For example, there was this girl I really liked. We hit it off immediately and had a lot of fun on the first date. I thought we matched up pretty well. I could have fallen for her, but in the end I realized that she was leading me on.
- Peter: I know the feeling! I fell head over heels for a girl who was into comics and movies like me, but our date didn't go anywhere.
- Mike: That may not have been easy for you. I know how much you like your superheroes.
- Peter: I wish she liked me, too, besides Batman and Superman.
- Mike: Don't worry about her. There must be someone who's right for you out there!
- Peter: I just wish I was less awkward when I talk to someone I don't know. It can't be hard for you. You ask girls out all the time.
- Mike: Keep trying. If you have good chemistry with someone, you'll know straightaway.

Let's Practice!

Peter fell head over heels for a girl who was into* comics. It's too bad the date didn't work out!

*When you are "into something", you have a strong interest in it.

Instructions: Select the phrasal verb from each sentence. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. It doesn't always work out, you know.
2. We hit it off immediately and had a lot of fun on the first date.
3. I thought we matched up pretty well.
4. In the end, I realized that she was leading me on.
5. You ask girls out all the time.

Let's Practice!

If only Peter could be a little more like Mike ...

Instructions: Organize the mystery sentence. Put each word in the correct order.

1. as / successful / I / as / girls / I / wish / are. / you / were / with

2. I / wish / don't / I / awkward / someone / was / less / when / I / talk to / just / I / know

3. date / I / much / liked / as / like / my / me / wish / as / I / her

4. wish / have / we / chemistry / I / if / I / knew / straightaway / together / good

Extension Activity

Talk about what you wish you could change about yourself.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think of 8-10 things you wish you could change about yourself. They could be related to physical appearance, personality or emotions.
- Make a list of them, and give one or two reasons why you would like to change them.
- Say how different you would be if these things could change.
- Listen to your partner's list.

Learning Points

Talking about Wishes and Imaginary Situations

You use "I wish ..." to talk about things you do not have or do, or you cannot have or do.

The verb wish introduces an idea. After wish, you use a verb in the past tense.

I wish I knew ...

I wish I had ...

I wish you were ...

I wish I was/were ...

Structure:

Wish + Simple Past tense

Example	Meaning
I wish I were as successful with girls as you are.	I want to be as successful as you, but I'm not.
I wish I was less awkward.	I want to be less awkward but I can't.
I wish she liked me.	She probably doesn't like me.

It is possible to use either was or were in the structure. Were is the more grammatically correct way to form the sentence, but was is common in conversation.

Learning Points

Modal Verbs for Speculating

You can use modals to talk about degrees of certainty.

You use them to describe what is definite, probable, possible, or impossible from the speaker's point of view.

You can use must, may, might, and could to describe degrees of certainty.

Must = It's very likely.

Must not/Could not/Can't = It's not possible.

May/Might/Can/Could = It's possible.

May not/Might not = It's possible this is not true.

You can use them in the present or perfect tenses. When you use them in the perfect tense, you are speculating about the past.

For example: She may have been busy when you tried to call.

Modal	Meaning
That must feel natural for you.	It's very likely it's natural for you.
It can't be hard for you.	It's not possible that it's hard for you.
I could've fallen for her.	It's possible I would have fallen for her.
That may not have been easy for you.	It's possible it wasn't easy for you.

*Remember that in conversation, using the contracted form of the verb phrase is common (could have = could've).
